Carbon Monoxide (CO) - is a lethal poison produced when certain fuels are burned. It can rapidly accumulate even in areas that might appear well ventilated. Because CO is colourless, tasteless, odourless and non-irritating, it can overcome an exposed person without warning. Recognising early warning signs of CO poisoning is sometimes difficult because early symptoms of CO exposure (headache, dizziness, nausea) are non-specific and may be mistaken for symptoms of other illnesses. A victim of CO poisoning may also become weak and confused and subsequently deprived of the ability to seek safety.

Paint Marker Pens

Fast drying, multi-surface, paint marker pens

Paint Marker Pens can be used exactly like regular ink permanent markers, but without the drawbacks typically associated with them. The acrylic paint is highly tenacious, able to write on almost any surface, and on any substrate colour. The very high opacity ensures outstanding colour vibrancy and visibility, and the advanced pigment technology delivers very long lasting, zero fade performance. Tenacious resin binds paint to the writing surface almost eliminating the problems associated with accidental rub-off and will not wash off with water/rain.

- Excellent opaque coverage, even on dark surfaces.
- Fast drying.
- Durable tip with valve action to prevent excess paint flow.
- Medium thickness point (Ø 3mm).
- Easy, accurate application.
- Multi-surface. Can be used on: metal, rubber, glass, textile, paper, enamel, plastic, cardboard, tiles, wood and many more.

- Colours available:
  - REGM50 Yellow: for Gas Pipes
  - REGM51 Red: for Hot Water Pipes
  - REGM52 Blue: for Cold Water Pipes
  - REGM53 Black: for Waste Pipes and general purpose

The Regin Stove Range Heat Powered Stove Fan is designed to circulate the warm air that is created by a stove operating with normal surface temperature between 65°C and 345°C. The warm air is pushed out into the living area rather than just rising to the ceiling above the stove. Improved warm air circulation results in greater heat dispersion and less fuel consumption. The stove fan does not use batteries or mains power.

The specifically designed blade delivers a very broad cross section of gentle air movement.

The stove fan starts automatically and adjusts its speed with the stove’s temperature. It runs faster to move more air into the room as the stove heats up, and automatically slows down and stops as the stove burns down & cools.

- Needs no electricity
- Circulates warm air throughout the room
- Burn less wood
- Silent operation.

Available in three colours:
- REGST85: Nickel Blade

Flared Fittings

Metric 45° Flaring Tool

For 4mm - 16mm diameter pipes.

- BS EN 1254-2:1998 defines two types of compression fittings for use with copper tubes to BS EN 1057: 1996. Type A consists of a nut and olive, Type B includes flared fittings. Type A are designed for use on hard copper (R290) or half hard (R250) copper where the union can be tightened onto the olive to form a seal onto the rigid pipe. If used on soft copper, Type A fittings can distort the pipe, causing weeping, sweating or leaks, which is unacceptable given environmental considerations. BS EN 1254-2: 1998 highlights concern over using type A fittings with R220 (annealed) soft copper pipe, stating that internal support of the tube can be required to allow compression of the ring onto the copper tube. BS EN 1254-2: 1998 states that Type B fittings should be used with R220 (annealed) soft copper tube.

One advantage of flared fittings is that metric pipe can easily be joined to imperial. A new appliance or pipework can be connected to an existing 3/8” supply by using a 10mm flared fitting with an optional 3/8” nut. Type A compression fittings would not necessarily give a sound installation, and in particular for oil suction lines, it is crucial not just to get an oil tight seal, but also an airtight one as well. It is vitally important for all installers to ensure they have created a fully compliant and sound installation - and that means the pipes and fittings as well.

- Supplied in protective carry case.
